Course Description

Social Justice, Advocacy, and Action is designed for graduate students in school psychology and related fields. Students must be enrolled in a graduate program in order to take the course. The course is designed to provide a social justice framework to all aspects of the role of a school psychologist. To that end, students will learn social justice theories and research with specific attention to minoritized and oppressed groups. Students will engage in self-exploration of personal values and biases that influence our practice. They will learn about social structures of power and oppression, socio-cultural diversity, and the impact in our schools. The overarching course goal is in an increased ability to advocate for and engage in applying socially just work in educational settings.

Course Objectives

The objectives are that, by the end of the course, students will:

- Understand theory and concepts of social justice
- Understand research in the area of social justice and diversity
- Explore their personal values and biases and understand the positive and negative impact they may have when working with and for minoritized groups.
- Understand impact of personal values especially when they differ from those held by the students we serve.
- Understand oppression as it pertains to educational practices.

- Help others engage in equitable practices.
- Advocate for social justice in their role as school psychologists
- Identify needs of diverse learners
- Understand the ethical implications of practicing in a social justice framework

These objectives are primarily associated with NASP and UNO Training Objective 8: Equitable Practices for Diverse Student Populations. Other domains addressed are:

- Objective 5: School-Wide Practices to Promote Learning
- Objective 6: Services to Promote Safe and Supportive Schools
- Objective 7: Family, School, and Community Collaboration
- Objective 8: Equitable Practices for Diverse Student Populations
- Objective 9: Research and Evidence-Based Practice
- Objective 10: Legal, Ethical, and Professional Practice
- Objective 11: Professional Work Characteristics

Teaching Methodology and Student Role in Course

The primary instructional method used is a flipped classroom where discussion is emphasized. To receive the maximum benefit of the class, students should prepare by carefully reading the assigned materials, writing reflections, downloading power point presentations from the course Canvas site, and developing ideas and questions about the content. Thus, students should come to class prepared for discussions. Students also write papers and make presentations to the class. At all times, students are expected to do their best work and must take personal responsibility for their learning. If any student should need individual assistance, they can contact the course instructor who is available for individual meetings.

Classroom Expectations and Etiquette

Participating fully in class discussions is essential to the learning process showing respect for others and the topic/material. It will be important to listen and learn from the contributions of others in the class. Therefore students must be respectful of the perspectives of others. Some students choose to share personal stories regarding their own experiences or experiences of people they know. This information has the potential to be highly sensitive. Confidential information shared in class may not be discussed outside of class.

COVID Guidelines and Accommodations

With the ever changing impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on public health and safety, students should follow UNO guidelines and review them often. At the time this syllabus was developed, the expectation is that students will attend class in person. Masks will be worn the entire time students are in class. No food or drink can be consumed in class.

The exceptions to in class attendance are if a student has COVID or COVID symptoms, is exposed to COVID and cannot produce a negative test (this condition may change and it will be important to review guidelines before making a decision), and if a family member needs caretaking for COVID. Please contact the instructor immediately if any of these conditions apply. If a student is COVID positive, a report must be filed with UNO and the UNO guidelines for returning to class will apply.

Requirements

1) Journals of Critical Reflection (JCR) (20%)

For designated classes, students will write a 3 page double spaced JCR related to the reading and submit it on Canvas prior to class. The JCR will be utilized to facilitate discussion and should focus on reactions to the material and pose discussion questions. Students must write about and react to all the assigned reading.

Papers will be graded on insight, reflection, synthesis of ideas, and ability to think forward at to how the information will be used in the future and in action plans. Students should NOT summarize the readings in these papers. A grading rubric is included in this syllabus. The instructor will review JCRs and address any questions that were not discussed in class.

JCR Prompts:

New Information: What new information did I learn?

Challenges: What information challenged my thinking?

Application: How will I use this information in the future?

What do I want to remember when I'm on practicum and beyond?

Discussion: What are my discussion priorities for class (include 2-3)? These can be brought up in class as questions or discussions issues.

2) Class Participation (20%)

All students are expected to participate in class discussion by asking questions, contributing ideas, and generating thoughtful discourse. The focus should be on how the readings influenced current thinking and how it will impact future advocacy and action.

The course topics can elicit strong emotions and reactions that are varied across students because of their lived experiences. Therefore, it is important to have the discussions in a safe and respectful space where information can be processed and differences respected. Learning is enhanced through diversity of experiences, ideas, and opinions.

Students' participation will be graded at the end of each class. Criteria include the quality and quantity of participation, scholarly and insightful nature of comments, engagement of classmates, and respect for classmates' contributions. The rubric is included in this syllabus.

3) Class Facilitator (20%)

A series of topics will be student led by taking full responsibility for lesson planning. Students will work in pairs to gather and present information, lead a discussion and/or activity, and assign reading material. Readings and class content must directly relate to school psychology and our role in educational settings. JCRs can be used if the presenters so choose but the instructor will not grade them.

A facilitator rubric will be used to grade the class sessions and it is included at the end of this syllabus. In addition, students will respond to a self evaluation and also (possibly) rate their partner on preparation and delivery.

Topics: (each dyad will choose one topic)

Ableism

Foster Care/Adoption

Gender
Homelessness
Religious Oppression
Sexual Health & Health Curricula

3) Media Review (10%)

Students will review a movie or documentary pertaining to a specific area of interest and write a reaction paper. It is intended to enhance knowledge on a specific topic. Students must have their media selection approved by the instructor. Although a list of movies, etc is provided in this syllabus, not all would necessarily be appropriate for this assignment. If you do not have access to any of the movies/documentaries, please contact the instructor for options.

The final product includes a written summary of the movie/documentary themes and how they exemplify the principles of social justice. Be specific about the principle of social justice and how it links to the movie/documentary. Use the resources in our introductory classes and from the NASP website. End the paper with an “elevator speech” about the movie/documentary.

Grading Criteria:

- Clearly stated themes and ideas
- Clearly articulated links to social justice principles
- Connection to other readings and course material
- Personal reflection of how the impact on personal growth
- Implications for recommending the movie/documentary to others
- Quality of “elevator speech.”
- Organization, writing, grammar.

4) Social Justice Action Plan (15%)

Students will develop a social justice action plan that can be used in practicum and/or internship. Begin thinking about you plan at the beginning of the semester and let the plan grow and evolve throughout the semester. Plans will be formally presented at the end of the semester. The written plan will be submitted on Canvas.

The Social Justice Action Planning worksheet (Shriberg, 2020) will be used for this project. Select a population and need and use the worksheet to guide your process. Use scholarly resources to support the plan. The planning process can and should be incorporated into class discussion. Students are encouraged to meet with the instructor to discuss the plan when needed.

Grading Criteria:

- Addresses a social justice issue in schools
- Use of research and course materials to justify the project
- Comprehensiveness of plan
- Plan feasibility
- Connection to school psychology
- Presentation

5) Final Reflection (15%)

At the end of the semester students will write a 5 page paper where they reflect on their growth and learning in social justice. Incorporate all topics but focus more on the ones where growth occurred. This is a professional reflection and should be grounded in the course readings, speakers, and discussion.

Reflection Components

- Areas of personal growth
- Relevance of course material to personal growth (focus most of the paper here)
- Areas of need for continued growth
- Future professional development needs

Course Policies

Late Papers: Late papers are highly discouraged and will automatically lower the final grade by 5 percentage points for each day that the paper is late. Papers are due at the beginning of class and cannot be turned in later in class or later in the day for full credit.

Plagiarism: Plagiarism is a very serious issue. If you are unsure of whether or not you are committing plagiarism, or want to refresh yourself, please check the tutorial at <http://www.indiana.edu/~istd/>. Discovery of plagiarism will result in a failing grade.

Incompletes: Incompletes will be given only under extreme circumstances. If a student believes an Incomplete is needed, they must contact the instructor prior to the last week of classes.

Attendance: Attendance is critical to successfully learning course content. Excessive absenteeism (more than 2) and tardiness (more than 4) will result in a penalty in the overall grade lowered by a half grade for each infraction. There will be no approved drops after the official date (see University Catalog).

External Distractions: When participating remotely, please remove as many external distractions as possible and remain engaged throughout the entire class.

Grading Scale:

Grade	Percentage
A+	99-100%
A	93-98%
A-	90-92%
B+	87-89%
B	83-86%
B-	80-82%
C+	77-79%
C	73-76%
C-	70-72%
D	60-69%

Overall Class Participation

EVALUATIVE DIMENSION	“A” GRADE	“B” GRADE	“C” GRADE	“D/F” GRADE
PROMPTNESS	Routinely arrives on time for class and is prepared to begin at the designated time as well as following any breaks; student does not leave class early	Occasionally late to class, does not return promptly from designated breaks; OR occasionally leaves early	Demonstrates a pattern of lateness or early departure that interferes with course objectives.	Consistently late to class, does not return from breaks in a timely manner, and/ or leaves class early
QUALITY OF CONTRIBUTIONS	Contributions are relevant and routinely integrate course reading and life experiences into the discussion; Arguments are evidenced-based and supported through course content and/or life experiences	Contributions lean more toward either course readings or life experiences, but are relevant to the conversation; Arguments are generally evidence-based	Contributions are not relevant to the conversation and rarely incorporate course readings; Contributions betray a lack of preparation for class; Arguments are rarely evidence-based	No or minimal contributions or arguments are offered
SIGNIFICANCE OF CONTRIBUTIONS	Contributions add complexity to the conversation and support or build off of others’ contributions	Contributions are generally substantive, but occasionally indicate a lack of attention to what others have shared	Contributions repeat what others have shared and thus do not advance the conversation	No or minimal contributions are offered
GENERAL ENGAGEMENT	Regularly contributes to the class in both large and small group formats; Routinely engaged with course activities and / or discussions	Contributions generally favor either the small or large group; Does not consistently appear engaged in activities and/ or discussions	Minimal contributions are offered in either the small or large group; Appears disengaged from activities and/ or discussions; Addresses core issues in activities and/ or discussions quickly and shifts to personal conversations or off-topic material	No contributions are offered
GATE-KEEPING	Does not dominate the conversation; Regularly encourages the participation of others by posing questions or asking for other students’ thoughts	Student occasionally encourages the participation of others; recognizes the contributions of others	Dominates the conversation; Does not engage other students in conversation; directs majority of comments to the instructor	No or minimal contributions

LISTENING/ ATTENDING SKILLS	Is considerate (verbally and nonverbally) of appropriately expressed feelings and opinions of others; Actively listens to both peers and instructor; Actively supports peers' learning processes	Generally considerate (verbally and nonverbally) of appropriately expressed feelings and opinions of others; typically displays active listening; generally supports peers' learning processes	Is dismissive (verbally or nonverbally) of others' feelings and opinions; Display a lack of interest; Does not actively support peers' learning processes	Inconsiderate of others' feelings and opinions; Does not actively listen or support others' learning

Class ParticipationName: _____

	Excellent	Average	Below Average
Amount	Balanced amount of talking-not too much or too little -makes several comments throughout entire class period	Balanced amount of talking-not too much or too little -makes several comments at one point in class period	Talks too much, too little, or not at all
Content	Asks insightful questions; comments include supporting evidence from readings and/or experience	Demonstrates an understanding of the material through comments	Incorrect or irrelevant statements
Facilitation	Discussion frequently generates comments from classmates	Discussion sometimes generate comments from classmates	Discussion does not generate comments from classmates
Complexity and Application	Comments always reflect higher-order thinking skills such as integration and application	Comments frequently reflect higher-order thinking skills such as integration and application	Comments rarely reflect higher-order thinking skills such as integration application
Integration	Comments often relate current discussions to other topics already addressed in course readings, activities, or discussion	Comments occasionally relate current discussion to other topics already addressed in course readings, activities, or discussion	Comments rarely relate current discussion to other topics already addressed in course readings, activities, or discussion

Topic Facilitator

Name: _____

	Excellent	Adequate	Needs Improvement
Assigned Readings	Readings and any other assignments were highly relevant, challenging, scholarly, and addressed the topic. They were incorporated into the class time.	Readings and any other assignments were relevant, challenging, scholarly, and addressed the topic. They were incorporated into the class time.	Minimal readings were assigned and/or the readings were not scholarly.
Used Time Effectively	Used 75 minutes of time. Balance between presentation, discussion, and activity.	Within 5 minutes of the requirement	Less than 25 minutes or more than 35 minutes
Organization	Session flowed logically; content was introduced at the beginning and summarized at the end	Audience could usually understand the main points of the presentation; presenter introduced the content at the beginning and summarized it at the end	Main points were not clear
Presentation of Content	Presenters did not try to cover too much or too little; main points were highlighted throughout the presentation so they were always in the forefront of importance; all content was clearly related to the main points	Presenter did not try to cover too much or too little; main points were highlighted	Presenter covered too much or too little; main points were not highlighted
Balanced Preparation and Presenting	Both presenters contributed equally to preparing for and presenting during the class session	Both presenters contributed to preparing for and presenting during the class session but it was somewhat unbalanced	Presenters did not contribute equally to preparing for and presenting during the class session
Discussion/Activity	Engaging, creative, related directly to the presentation content and allowed participants to better understand and retain the information	Related directly to the presentation content and allowed participants to better understand and retain the information	Marginally related to the presentation content and allowed participants to better understand and retain the information
Engagement	All participants were actively engaged in discussion/activity	Most participants were actively engaged in discussion/activity	Half or fewer of the participants were actively engaged in discussion/activity

Relevance	Content of presentation and discussion/activity was highly relevant to school psychologists	Content of presentation and discussion/activity was relevant to school psychologists	Content of presentation and discussion/activity was marginally relevant to school psychologists
