

Exploring Mel Gibson's "The Passion of Christ"

Thursday, January 29, 2004

9:00 a.m. - 5:30 p.m.

On the campuses of

and

The purpose of this symposium is to explore some of the issues surrounding Mel Gibson's soon to be released movie, "The Passion of Christ." Topics include anti-Semitism, the historical Jesus, portraying Jesus in the movies, the Roman Catholic perspective, and media coverage of the controversy.

Speakers include the following people:

Philip Cunningham (Boston College)

Dennis Hamm, S. J. (Creighton University)

Charles Jurgensmeier, S.J. (Creighton University)

Michael Lawler (Creighton University)

Gordon Mork (Purdue University)

John Pawlikowski, O.S.M. (Catholic Theological Union)

Adele Reinhartz (Wilfred Laurier University)

Mark Silk (Trinity College)

Sidnie White Crawford (University of Nebraska-Lincoln)

Sponsored by

Creighton University's Center for the Study
Of Religion & Society

Journal of Religion & Film

For further information please contact

Ron Simkins
402-280-2504

rsmkns@creighton.edu

or

Bill Blizek
402-554-2628

wblizek@mail.unomaha.edu

Co-sponsors include

The Klutznick Chair of Jewish Civilizations

Jewish Educational
&
Library Services