

STEM Career Development Workshops

Learn how to get your STEM career started with Alaina Levine, author of Networking for Nerds – Friday, September 20th

I am about to graduate what on earth do I do now?

September 20th | 9 – 10 AM | MBSC Chancellor's Room

Whether you started career planning and job searching a year ago, a month ago or today, there are a few things you can do to get the ball rolling to land a job you enjoy. In this workshop, you will learn specific tasks you can do RIGHT NOW to get a job and advance in your career. You will emerge with a solid and strategic plan that you can adapt at any stage of your career, but is especially valuable for those who are about to graduate and haven't lined up a position yet.

STEM-educated pros can do anything! Allow me to tell you how awesome you are

September 20th | 10 – 11 AM | MBSC Chancellor's Room

As a STEM-educated professional, you have a lot more career opportunities than you realize. The key is being able to identify and articulate your unique value and problem-solving abilities to diverse decision-makers. In this workshop, we will address the unique skill set that you have mastered simply by pursuing a STEM degree and we will discuss ways in which we can communicate that value to others who can make a difference in your career opportunities.

Marketing your value: developing your elevator pitch

September 20th | 3 – 4 PM | MBSC Chancellor's Room

No matter what career you choose, you will always have to market yourself and "sell" your ideas. In this workshop, we will delve into the strategies for communicating your ideas and brand (your promise of value) in such a way that your constituents want to learn more and can visualize how your innovative attitude will benefit them. The key to this is crafting a winning elevator pitch!
