WE ARE SEEKING PARTICIPANTS FOR AN ORAL HISTORY PROJECT ON LATINO RAILROAD WORKERS IN THE MIDWEST.

The University of Nebraska at Omaha's Office of Latino/Latin American Studies (UNO-OLLAS) is seeking participants for an oral history project on Latino Railroad Workers in the Midwest. This is a collaborative project between the Union Pacific (UP) Railroad Museum and OLLAS UNO's Office of Latino/Latin American Studies (OLLAS) and its objective is to collect and bring to light the important contributions of Latino railroad workers to the development of railroads in the Midwest. At the end of this project, these histories and any donated material will be publicly accessible at UNO Libraries' Archives & Special Collections and at the UP Railroad Museum.

Interviews will be done online via Zoom video or in person. If you are not interested in being interviewed, but still want to collaborate with this important project, we are also seeking any documents, pictures, and materials related to your experience as a former railroad worker. If you are interested in participating and/or in donating materials, please fill out this form <https://bit.ly/3i5FHk2> and/or contact Dr. Cristián Doña-Reveco at cdona@unomaha.edu.
