

Emma Arneson

I completed my undergraduate degree in Communication Education with a concentration in Speech Education from South Dakota State University. I am currently a first-year graduate student with research interests in women, gender, and social movements. This year, I will be assistant coaching the Mavericks Forensics team. Outside of academics, I enjoy discovering new restaurants, reading, and hiking.

Karen Bravo

I earned my Bachelor of Arts (B.A.) in Communication Studies from UNO and am now a first-year graduate student in the Communication program. I work as a Financial Professional with Mutual of Omaha Advisors. After loving UNO's Communication program as an undergraduate, I wanted to continue my education and legacy at UNO. My research interests focus on communication in financial planning across diverse socioeconomic and cultural groups. My personal interests include volunteering, reading, traveling, playing video games and watching anime.

Ella Dadugblor

I am a Graduate Teaching Assistant in the School of Communication, where I teach Public Speaking Fundamentals. With a background in journalism, strategic communication, digital media, and documentary filmmaking, my academic interests include gender, media representation, and digital culture. My thesis examines how male TikTok creators perform femininity for humor and how audiences respond to these portrayals.

Olivia Davis

I hold a Bachelor of Science in Business Administration and Management and am currently in my first year of graduate school, where I am researching accessibility in education. Professionally, I have worked in higher education at the University of Nevada, Las Vegas, and the University of Nebraska Omaha, serving in administrative roles. I enjoy baking and collecting gothic and medieval-style trinkets.
