Rev. 3/15

The University of Nebraska at Omaha does not discriminate based on gender, age, disability, race, color, religion, marital status, veteran's status, national or ethnic origin, genetic information, political affiliation or sexual orientation.

PURPOSE

To provide current and aspiring school superintendents and other educational leaders with the skills and knowledge that will help them successfully understand the workings of school districts. This is an extended experience beyond a traditional graduate program.

WHO IS ELIGIBLE?

New superintendents, sitting superintendents of districts, associate and assistant superintendents of larger districts, and principals with at least two years of experience.

All applicants must hold or be eligible for a superintendent's license.

WHAT'S THE SCHEDULE?

September 25, 2015 – June 19, 2016

Courses begin September 25, 2015 with a day-long course. One day courses are offered every month (except December) through June 19, 2016.

All courses are held on UNO's campus.

"The networking opportunities and ability to discuss real-world education issues with school practitioners, community leaders and university researchers was extremely valuable. It was one of the most beneficial professional activities I've experienced."

– Andy Rikli, Superintendent, Papillion-La Vista School District

WHAT'S THE CONTENT?

Leadership development; change management–strategic planning; systems thinking; crisis management; career development; innovations in technology; ethical leadership; building board relationships; politics of the superintendence; communication and marketing.

WHO TEACHES THE COURSES?

A mix of university faculty and practitioners with local/regional/national experience.

Former guest speakers include:

- Tom Osborne–Ethical Leadership
- Alan November–Technology in the classroom
- Kati Haycock–Heritage Foundation
- John Barry–former superintendent, Aurora, Colorado
- Tim Waters–McREL
- Ray and Associates, Inc.–Executive Search Firm/Career Development
- Gallup–Strength Finder
