Social Science Endorsement Admission Application Information

Rationale for Capping the Social Science Cohort:

- The current employment market does not support the number of social science candidates we previously admitted. It is an ethical decision to balance the number of candidates prepared with the likelihood of employment.

- By limiting the number of candidates admitted we can use our resources more efficiently and effectively to provide an optimum experience for our social science candidates. These resources extend beyond UNO to the field placements, cooperating teachers, and university supervisors who mentor candidates.

- IF a student is accepted into the social science cohort, the student must work with their Academic Advisor and Teacher Education faculty to generate a plan for increasing their marketability upon graduation. Students seeking a social science endorsement, should graduate with a “social science plus” experience to make themselves more competitive for teaching positions.

Admission Requirements:

- Minimum cumulative NU system GPA of 3.25
- Admission to Educator Preparation Program (EPP).
  - As of October 1, 2015, a student may only apply to the social science cohort at the time they submit their application to EPP. While the EPP GPA requirement is a 2.75, a student must have a 3.25 GPA to be approved for the social science cohort.

Selection:

Students meeting admission criteria will be admitted into the cohort.
