Kadleck, Colleen and Alexander M. Holsinger. “Crime Films: Issues of Genre and Sampling” revising after unsuccessful submission to Crime, Media and Culture

Kadleck, Colleen and Danny Madrid. “Image Analysis: Cave Paintings and the “CSI” Effect” in preparation for submission to Crime, Media and Culture

Kadleck, Colleen Viral Videos of Police Use of Force: Exploring Officer Responses Report is underway as well as the development of the first article which will be a summary of the results. Later papers include exploring officer accounts of the use of profanity in police-citizen encounters and officer perceptions of the effect of the mass media on police-citizen encounters.

Kadleck, Colleen Violent Film Trailers Project. The focus is the development of instrument which captures a variety of representational data concerning crime and justice issues and some media-specific questions. The trailers are being coded to examine (1) the representation of victims and victimization, (2) the representation of offenders and offending behavior, (3) the representation of police, profilers and other protective agents, (4) the use of film trailers for film sampling, and (5) a comparison of element-based versus global genre assessments.
