The University of Nebraska is an affirmative action/equal opportunity employer.

A Message from Dean B. J. Reed:

The individuals we honor today have distinguished themselves through their professional service and community stewardship. In their daily deeds and life-long accomplishments, each of these individuals define the very best of public service: integrity, volunteerism, leadership, and professionalism. They are a credit to their fields of study, profession, families, and communities, and our world is a better place because of these individuals. Please join me in congratulating them.

A special thanks to the UNO Alumni Association for underwriting a portion of this event

College of Public Affairs and Community Service (CPACS) Alumni Awards for Excellence in Public Service 2010 Recipients

Ricardo Ariza is a native of South Omaha and graduated from South High School in 1977. A graduate of the Goodrich Scholarship Program, he received his bachelor of social work degree in 1982 and a master of social work degree from UNO in 1993. Ariza is very proud that he is a Goodrich Scholar and attributes his 16 years of success as the first director of Multicultural Affairs at Creighton University to the foundation of knowledge learned from faculty and staff in the Goodrich Scholarship Program. Previously, he held positions as a family teacher at Father Flanagan's Boy's Town, mental health counselor at the Nebraska Department of Corrections, mental health counselor at the Lancaster County Community Mental Health Center, counselor at the Saint Joseph Center for Mental Health and post-baccalaureate counselor at Creighton University. Ariza enjoys serving in leadership roles and is currently a member of the Creighton President's Community Advisory Board, Creighton University Social Work Community Council, the Initiatives in Diversity Education and Action Committee, National Catholic Migrant Farm Worker Network Board, and the Latino Scholarship Fund Board. He is co-chairman of the Latino Achievement Council at Omaha Public Schools and past-chairman of the National Association of Jesuit Colleges and Universities Conference on Multicultural Affairs.

Dr. Deborah Circo received her bachelor of science in criminal justice degree from UNO in 1980, a master of social work degree from UNO in 1990, a master of arts degree in psychology from UNL in 2000, and a Ph.D. in developmental psychology from UNL in 2004. For the past twenty years she has devoted her career to developing programs and services for individuals with intellectual impairments and developmental disabilities; services and programs for foster youth; clinical services for families of children with behavioral problems; and training and mentoring graduate learners. She has written, and been awarded, federal, state, and local grants focused on enhancing the lives and social-emotional opportunities for youth and young adults with special needs. She is also an assistant professor and director of social work at Munroe-Meyer Institute for Genetics and Rehabilitation at the University of Nebraska Medical Center.

Teresa Coleman Hunter is a graduate of the Goodrich Scholarship Program. Inc. After earning a bachelor of science in business administration degree from UNO in 1988, she received a juris doctor degree from Creighton University Law School in 1994. Hunter serves as executive director and CEO for Family Housing Advisory Services, Inc. and Omaha 100. Under her leadership, Family Housing Advisory Services, Inc. has developed a reputation in the community for empowering people and changing lives through the professional delivery of its comprehensive housing and financial services by over thirty staff in three offices in Nebraska and Iowa. Her community service currently includes serving on the boards of multiple community organizations, including the Nonprofit Association of the Midlands, Empowerment Network, Catholic Charities, Alliance Building Communities, the Mayor's Fair Housing Advisory Group, Bright Futures Foundation Community Advisory Board, and Douglas County Emergency Food and Shelter Board. Teresa and her husband, Stacy Hunter, have four children, two boys and two girls: Brenton, Coleman, Chandler and Stacia. Stacy works for Union Pacific Railroad, and is a pastor at Faith Mission Church, a growing church in the heart of north Omaha.

Colonel Roger Donlon received a bachelor of general studies degree from UNO and a master of science degree in government from Campbell University. military career began in 1953 with the enlisted service in both the Air Force and the Army. He was commissioned through Officer Candidate School as an infantry officer in 1959. He spent the next 29 years serving in assignments based on a triad of his specialties as an infantry, special forces, and foreign air officer. For conspicuous gallantry and at the risk of his own life above and beyond the call of duty on July 6, 1964, Donlon became the first American soldier to be awarded the Medal of Honor in Vietnam. Military and civilian education included: the Special Warfare Course, Infantry Advanced Course, Command and General Staff College, Foreign Service Institute, U.S. Army Institute for Military Assistance, School of International Studies, and the Army War College. He is the author of BEYOND NAM DONG, a self biography. He is also the co-author of OUTPOST OF FREEDOM, published by McGraw-Hill and condensed for publication in the October 1965 issue of the Saturday Evening Post, which featured his picture on the cover. Since retiring from the Army in 1988, Colonel Donlon has served on many boards and organizations, including the board of directors/trustees of People-to-People International. In 1995 he was inducted into the Fort Leavenworth Hall of Fame, the only non-general officer to hold this distinction in the 20th century. In 1997 Colonel Donlon became the first recipient of the Outstanding Alumnus Award at the U.S. Army War College. Colonel Donlon is currently serving as the "Honorary Colonel" of the First Special Forces Regiment. Colonel Donlon and his wife, Norma, have five children and six grandchildren.

John W. Ewing, Jr. is a family man with a community service conscience. He and his wife Vivienne have been married over 25 years and have two daughters. She is the proud parent of two children, Paulina and Brandon.

2010 Hubert Locke Distinguished Service Award

This award was established in 2002 to honor an individual who has demonstrated exemplary commitment to the ideals of public service through their professional activities, community service, and philanthropy. Dr. Hubert Locke served as the first permanent dean of the College of Public Affairs and Community Service from 1972 to 1976. After leaving UNO, Dr. Locke joined the faculty of the University of Washington where he served as dean of the UW Graduate School of Public Affairs. Dr. Locke's distinguished record of public and community service represent the highest ideals of CPACS. We are proud to recognize individuals who follow in his footsteps.

Don Waggoner is President of Don Waggoner Life Insurance Group, LLC. Don began his career in the insurance business in 1964, a career that has lasted for 46 years. Much of Don's public service career has involved managing political campaigns. Those activities began in 1968, when he managed a successful campaign for a state representative in Colorado. Later that same year, Don worked as an advance man for the Reagan presidential campaign. In 1970, he went to Kansas to manage a campaign for the state attorney general. Following his move to Omaha in 1971, Don managed Ed Zorinsky's campaign for mayor in 1973, his campaign for the Senate in 1976, and his re-election campaign in 1982. Don later served as chief-of-staff for Mayor Walt Calinger in 1988-89. Outside of politics, Don has served as president of the West Omaha Cosmopolitan Club, a local service organization, and later as president of the Footprinters Club (a post to which he was re-elected twice). He also was project director, appointed by Mayor Ed Zorinsky in 1975, of the American Freedom Train for Omaha/Douglas County. Over 300 volunteers participated in the program, and 100,000 people passed through the train in 7 days.

Using his large interpersonal network of friends and acquaintances, Don recently began organizing a series of businessman luncheons designed to provide participants with specific knowledge critical to their business success (e.g., legal issues in hiring and separation, retirement planning, etc). To underwrite the costs of these luncheons, Don has recruited community sponsors; however, Don also uses these events as charitable fundraisers, so participants can make a tax-deductible contribution to some worthwhile organization. A friend of Don's, Dr. David Bender (whose wife, Mary, is an adjunct faculty member in the UNO Department of Gerontology), introduced Don to some of the gerontology faculty, and the department has since become a beneficiary of Don and his friends' charitable work.

Don has been married to his wife, Diana, for 43 years. Don tells a story of their wedding reception in which an older friend of Diana's made the observation that "Diana must see something in you that the rest of us don't." We think we know what Diana saw.
