Mid-Life, Career Change, & Pre-Retirement
GERO 4750/8756, COUN 8756

Online Course Redeveloped for Spring 2020!

Course Description
This course is designed to involve candidates in the exploration of the developmental tasks of mid-life, myths and realities related to career change as well as the implication of preretirement planning. Factual information, as well as model examination and evaluation are presented to aid the candidate in becoming better equipped to understand some of the forces which affect the well-being of middle aged persons as they prepare for the later years.

Enroll today!!

Who should take this class?
• Any Gerontology major/minor or BMS student with a Gerontology concentration who needs elective credit may take this class.
• Any grad student interested in Gerontology or Counseling who needs an elective credit should consider taking this class.
• Any student in psychology, business, public administration, social work, sociology, communication, or other related majors may enroll.

For More Information:
Department of Gerontology | 402.554.2272 | gerontology.unomaha.edu