Askable Adults Matter is a stand-alone training intervention that prepares adults who work with youth ages 11-19 years of age to be more approachable and knowledgeable about adolescent sexual and reproductive health, and to be proactive in referring youth for sexual and reproductive healthcare. Askable Adults Matter engages youth-serving professionals and volunteers to improve the lives of youth by directing youth to high-quality sexual and reproductive health information and services, where they can access tools and resources to prevent unintended pregnancy and transmission of STDs/HIV.

Learning Objectives: Youth-serving professionals who complete the training will be able to provide accurate, age-appropriate information, youth-friendly referrals, and other needed support to youth in positive and affirming ways.
