

LECTURE & DEMONSTRATION WITH SPECTRUM DANCE THEATER: A RAP ON RACE

JANUARY 8, 2018 | 7:00-8:30 PM

Barbara Weitz Community Engagement Center

Join choreographer Donald Byrd and Spectrum Dance Theater members for a lecture and demonstration of the groundbreaking performance, A Rap on Race.

In 1970, black author James Baldwin and white anthropologist Margaret Mead sat together and recorded a conversation on one of the defining subjects of the American experience – race. Together, Byrd and playwright Anna Deavere Smith have reimagined this monumental talk into an innovative production featuring the renowned dancers of Spectrum Dance Theater.

First 50 students receive a free ticket to the January 9 performance at the Orpheum Theater!
