Annual Gildersleeve Lecture: Getting to Know Your World

Geographical Field Studies: The United Kingdom, Costa Rica, and the USA

Join Dr. Rex Cammack, Dr. Christina Dando, and Dr. Michael Peterson from the Department of Geography and Geology as they share accounts of their travels with UNO students as part of Geographical Field Studies courses over the years.

Tuesday, November 15th, 2022 | Noon - 1 PM | Mammel Hall Room 119 | Pizza, salad, & soda to be served
Mammel Hall is located at 6708 Pine Street, on UNO's Pacific/Scott campus.

Charles (Charlie/Chuck) Gildersleeve was one of the founding faculty members of the International Studies Major and a long-time professor of Geography at UNO. He always made himself available to help students with study-abroad independent studies courses and gave permission for students who were registering late to enroll in his already overly full classes. His guest lecture each semester in the International Studies intro course was a highlight for all students. He took it upon himself to make international students feel at home in class and on campus with his inimitable warmth and wonderful sense of humor. In memory of his contributions to International Studies Majors and to international students at UNO, since 2009, UNO International Programs has presented the Charles Gildersleeve "Know-Your-World" Lecture each year during International Education Week.
