Rural Public Health

Join a unique collaborative opportunity for UNO students, UNMC students, and Rwandan medical students to create an e-Learning module and observe clinical and community healthcare delivery in rural Rwanda. This program is offered by UNMC's International Health and Medical Education, UNO's School of Health and Kinesiology, and University of Gitwe in Rwanda, May - June 2018.

As part of this program, UNO/UNMC students will spend two weeks working with medical students in Gitwe, a rural community located a scenic 3-hour drive from Kigali, capital of Rwanda. While in-country, students will also learn about infectious and non-communicable diseases and cultivate their inter-cultural awareness, cultural humility, and professionalism.
