COURSE INFORMATION: GEOGRAPHICAL FIELD STUDIES (GEOG 4620/8626)

Undergraduate & Graduate | Spring 2020 | Spring Lectures on Campus
May 15 - 30 in London

This two-week field experience explores London, core to sprawling periphery, examining the development of London from its Roman origins to its current dynamic form. Discover heaths as well as shores, picturesque villages and rapid redevelopment in areas like the Docklands. Highlights include visits to classic London sites like the Tower of London and the Greenwich Observatory, walking explorations of neighborhoods like Fleet Street and Camden, and a day trip to Brighton Beach on the English Channel.

STUDENT PERSPECTIVE

“ I went on the geography program to London in early May for two weeks and it was a life changing experience. This was my first flight ever, so I never realized how big the world really is until I travelled to London. ”

Gabriel, 2017 Program Participant
