Odee Ingersoll

Odee Ingersoll serves as Kearney Center Director for the Nebraska Business Development Center. The Nebraska Center for Business Transition - home of BizWorth Nebraska - is a program provided by the Nebraska Business Development Center at the University of Nebraska at Kearney. The center provides business transition or exit planning for owners who plan to sell or use generational succession to leave their business in five years or less. The program helps the owner position their business for maximum value using up to nine different exit strategies, increasing their opportunity for a successful outcome, and keeping important businesses and the employment they create viable and growing in their communities.
