

Dear Ana,

I'm writing this to you just a few days before you graduate from UNO.

As you embark on your journey in college, just know that your life will transform more than you could have ever imagined.

I know you're unsure on where to start and it seems overwhelming but trust me... you figure it out. You'll make friendships that mean the world to you and create opportunities that help define your career path. You'll accomplish more in your four years at UNO than you thought possible... and make some noise in the sports reporting world while you're at it.

Just know that you make that little girl proud that couldn't keep her eyes off Sports Center growing up... and you'll be a part of the change for women in the sports industry.

I'm so proud of you. Never forget why you started this. Now go show them why you belong.

Love,
Ana
