5. Upcoming speakers
 - a. August 8: Rachael Jensen, Office of Hardship and Support and Jacob Stodola, Student Legal Services-
Rachael Jensen -OHSR -Supports students that have been in the foster system, jail systems, homelessness, single parents, and other similar situations. The office is experiencing growing pains due to the number of applicants, but the program is growing! The office has been around for about a year. Scholarships are available for different students, one for single parents, one for students who have lived experience in the foster system. Working on getting a scholarship for previously incarcerated students. The Track program allows faculty and staff to go into the prison and work with the students teaching, and from there those students can go into higher education
Jacob Stodola- Student Legal Services- Attorney for the students. Office started in July 2022 – completely confidential office, does not have a duty to report other than if someone discloses, they are going to harm themselves. Prepares documents for students, everything provided to the students is free, hourly rate, advice, information. All legal services are free, doesn't pay some of the fees. If that office can't help Jacob does have a list of resources and other attorneys that can help at a free or reduced cost. Can only represent currently enrolled students. This does include staff who are taking classes.
